

FOREWORD

Dear readers,

Welcome to our May issue. It features several interesting articles such as an exploration into a scientific approach to acupuncture on page 3. This issue also includes an article from Holland written by Frank Roosen, a TCM teacher at Hwa To International University, whose approach to I Ching and DNA demonstrates TCM from a different perspective.

As promised in our previous issue, we have created a special section dedicated to information about institutes that promote integrative medicine. Our chief editor has visited Anhui University in China. The province of Anhui is well known for its TCM masters and its history of development and progress in the field of TCM. On page 24 we have summarized his findings in this new section.

Finally, we would like to invite you to several congresses (page 36, 58, 59) to further your knowledge of TCM. On the 20th–22nd of October the twentieth WFAS anniversary and International Congress is held in Beijing, China. You are welcome to join us for a seven-day or three-week learning experience with internships, classes and excursions at Beijing and Anhui University (page 31).

We hope you enjoy reading this issue as much as we did creating it.

Ms. Cherine Blankevoort
